REPORT INTRODUCTION

Purpose of the Report

The renewal report is a summary of findings and a resulting recommendation regarding renewal of the charter or contract for an operator-run school. To inform this recommendation, Baltimore City Public Schools collects and analyzes documentation including the school's renewal application, and an evaluation of the school's performance based on the renewal rubric, the School Effectiveness Review (SER) performed on site at each school and consideration of all other relevant information.

City Schools' renewal criteria are based on state law (§ 9-101, et seq., MD. CODE ANN., EDUC.) and Baltimore City Board of School Commissioners' policy IHBJ and associated administrative regulations (IHBJ-RA and JFA-RA). The Board's policy requires that schools up for renewal be evaluated on multiple measures including, but not limited to, the following:

- Student achievement, constituting at least 50 percent of the renewal score and including measures such as schoolwide performance on state assessments, College and Career Readiness (for schools with high school grades), academic programming for special student populations, and a school's fidelity to its charter
- School climate (chronic absence, suspensions, enrollment trends, school choice data, and school survey results from parents, teachers, and students)
- Financial management and governance (annual audits, school budget submissions, grants management, board documentation; compliance/adherence with federal, state, and local laws, rules, and regulations)
- An overall finding of not effective in any of the key areas (Student Achievement, School Climate, or Financial Management/Governance) may be the basis of a non-renewal decision.

The renewal process is a component of City Schools' annual review of its schools, designed to ensure that students and families across the district have access to school options that meet their interests and needs. The framework was originally developed in 2011 by the Renewal Stakeholders Working Group (composed of school operators from a range of school types, Supporting Public Schools of Choice, and the Maryland Charter School Network) who worked to develop a methodology for evaluating the performance of operator-run schools. The result: a fair, transparent, and rigorous renewal framework that reflects schools' unique nature and innovative contributions to student achievement, used for the first time in the 2012-13 school year, and a process for reviewing and updating the framework each year.

At the conclusion of each year's renewal cycle, staff engages operators and other key stakeholders in a review of the process to identify areas for improvement that could be addressed while still maintaining a level of predictability for schools up for renewal in the following year.

The Process

Based on recommendation of staff and feedback from school operators and other stakeholders following the normal feedback and review cycle, the Baltimore City Board of School Commissioners approved a modified renewal process for school year 2021-22. This modified process was designed to take into considerations the lingering impacts of the Covid19 pandemic on student data while still holding operators accountable to delivering strong programs for students. This year's process takes a focused look at data in the key areas (Student Achievement, School Climate and Effective Financial Management and Governance). Since the scope of certain data items like state assessments is limited, the Board approved modifications so that the only terms schools will be eligible for are either a three-year renewal term or non-renewal¹. Non-renewal recommendations will be considered for schools where the evidence indicates serious financial sustainability concerns, or inability to comply with critical state, federal and local guidelines that places students, staff or the district at risk. Thus, schools that earn a "Not Effective" rating in any of the following metrics will be recommended for non-renewal by the Charter and Operator-Led Schools Advisory Board to the CEO:

- Effective Programming for Students with Disabilities,
- Audit Content, Internal Controls,
- Operator Capacity, or
- Strategic Leadership/Governance (All of Domain 4 from SER).

If a school is considered for non-renewal based on any of these four metrics, the Board will also consider the school's record of renewal and academic performance, as measured in the Academic Success section of the renewal rubric, in making its renewal decision.

In addition to determining the renewal or non-renewal of a school's contract, the renewal process informs the Board and the public on the efficacy of school performance and practices, as well as helping identify areas for growth in schools' planning for their next contract term.

The revised process continues to use the following components:

- Renewal Rubric (Updated to reflect the above changes)
- Application for Renewal
- Data Tables prepared by City Schools
- School Effectiveness Review (Streamlined to include fewer key actions in metrics used in the School Climate section of the renewal rubric)

¹ In the modified renewal process for 2021-22, schools will not be eligible for a 5-year term or 8-year "extended" term. However, the outcome of the 2021-22 renewal process will allow schools to earn progress towards an extended renewal term in the future. According to Board Policy IHBJ – Public Charter Schools, "A public charter school shall only be eligible for an extended renewal term if the school has two or more consecutive full renewals, including demonstrating quality programming for all student groups." For the 2021-22 renewal process, a school that receives "Meets Expectations", "Effective" or "Highly Effective" in each of the four metrics that could lead to non-renewal listed above, as well as "Effective" or "Highly Effective" in the overall Academics section, will be considered to have earned a full renewal for their progress towards an 8-year extended renewal in future renewal processes.

The process starts with a review by the Charter and Operator-led Schools Advisory Board, whose members represent foundations, nonprofit organizations, school choice advocates, school operators, and district representatives; and whose function is to provide advice to the CEO on renewal and other issues as they relate to operator-led schools. In performing its review, the Advisory Board looks at all data and information, both quantitative and qualitative, to make sound recommendations to the CEO. After its review of the components above, the Advisory Board makes recommendations to City Schools’ CEO on whether charters or contracts should be renewed. The CEO considers the recommendations and the quantitative and qualitative review, and then makes her own recommendation to the Board. In some instances, the nature or severity of an issue raised during the renewal process is serious enough to give it extra weight in formulating the renewal recommendation and, ultimately, the renewal decision, especially in instances where the issue affects the wellbeing of students, staff, or the district as a whole.

The ultimate decision on all operator renewals rests with the Board, which considers the recommendations and rationale of the CEO, the operator renewal report, testimony given at public Board meetings and work sessions, the contents of the official record and the factors listed in policy IHBJ and administrative regulation IHBJ-RA for charter schools, and policy FCA and administrative regulation FCA-RA for non-charter schools. This includes the Board’s ability to consider prior partial renewal terms afforded to operators who have had serious challenges in the prior renewal that remain issues that continue to affect the wellbeing of students, staff, or the district as a whole based on evidence in this renewal process. In particular, as Policy IHBJ states, “[t]he Board may decide that a public charter school is not eligible for two consecutive partial renewals.”

3-year renewal

Discussion

On January 11, 2022, the Baltimore City Board of School Commissioners voted to renew the contract with City Neighbors Charter Hamilton, Inc. to operate City Neighbors Hamilton for a three-year term running from July 1, 2022 to June 30, 2025.

The school was rated “Meets Expectations” in Audits/Internal Controls, “Developing” in Effective Programming for Students with Disabilities, “Effective” in Operator Capacity, “Highly Effective” in Strategic Leadership/Governance, and “Developing” in Academics overall.

City Neighbors Charter School was rated “Effective” in Fidelity to Charter/Application Overall, indicating that “the school has implemented the mission expressed in its charter application and mission is clear to most stakeholders.” City Neighbors Hamilton’s mission is expressed clearly in its application and is evident throughout school life, including in the implementation of Project-Based Learning, in which students respond to local issues (e.g., chemical spills at Lake Montebello). This has led to a positive school climate that attracts students and encourages them to come to school regularly, as shown by the school’s strong climate trends. The school has implemented effective strategies to address any challenges evident in the data, particularly in the areas of enrollment, student attendance, and student choice data/school demand. The school has been fully enrolled for the duration of the five-year contract, averaging 360 lottery applications for roughly 35 seats annually. The school notes a general attendance rate of 95% for elementary grades and 96.1% for middle grades, both of which are higher than the district average. The school also indicates it is working toward fully implementing a restorative practices model, which the school believes to be a major factor in reduction of suspension rates. Additionally, students and parents are represented on the operator board, and parent involvement is high, with over 15,000 parent service hours documented over the past contract term.

The state performance ratings are based on the most recent years when the state assessment was given which are for school years 2016-17, 2017-18, and 2018-19. For PARCC absolute performance (2018-19), schools are compared to schools with similar levels of students considered economically disadvantaged (ED) because absolute performance on assessments is highly correlated to the relative wealth of student populations. City Neighbors Hamilton is rated “Not Effective” in ELA absolute performance in ELA 3-5 (32nd percentile in the ED comparison group), math 3-5 (44th percentile), and ELA 6-8 (32nd percentile). The school was rated “developing” in math 6-8 (59th percentile). In PARCC growth performance, which looks at the extent to which a school can improve individual student performance year to year over the three-year period considered, the school was rated “Developing” in ELA 3-5 (58th percentile overall) and “Highly Effective” in math 3-5 (88th percentile). In middle grades, math 6-8 is rated as “Developing” in the 62nd percentile and “Not Effective” in ELA 6-8 (28th percentile). As demonstrated by these ratings the school’s academic performance data is mixed and so the school must continue to take steps to improve student performance overall and particularly in English Language Arts. Some of the steps the school has taken to improve practice include development of “intensives” which is an invention block for students in grades 3-8, hiring an early literacy intervention teacher to support early learners (grades K-3) and use of I-Ready and other online learning platforms. City Neighbors Hamilton must continue to deepen its work in the use of data and improve the level of academic rigor used in instruction to drive improvement (see the School Effectiveness Review).

The school was rated “Developing” in Effective Programming for All Student Racial/Ethnic Groups. This measure considers in part whether a school is “Making progress in delivering quality programming for all student racial groups and is aware of its data of all student groups³.” While there the school has implemented some instructional approaches, processes and practices that the school believes will decrease achievement gaps, these strategies have not yet been proven effective as shown in the school’s data for different student groups. The school has recognized that it has achievement gaps and in response, the application described several equity and anti-racist processes and practices the school has implemented, including classroom interventions, an Equity Self-Audit, and ongoing consultancy work. While the school reports internal data is demonstrating gains in reading and math assessments, these strategies have not yet been proven effective as shown in the school’s official data, and further progress must be made, as there are significant gaps in achievement data between black and white students; additionally, the achievement of black and white students respectively are below or only slightly above average for most tested grade bands of ELA and math.

The school was rated “Developing” in Effective Programming for Students with Disabilities. Evidence shows the school is “working towards a trajectory of growth, is aware of its data and responsibilities to students with disabilities, and has implemented processes, interventions and strategies to support student outcomes including to address any gaps in the data as it relates to performance and climate metrics for students with disabilities over time over the course of the contract but in some instances has struggled to take measures that are appropriate and sufficient. The school has taken steps to remedy such shortcomings.” Academic results for students with disabilities do not show a clear trajectory for growth in all areas. The school has implemented strong processes which have resulted in high attendance rates and low chronic absence for these students. An audit of school practices conducted by the Office of Special Education showed the school had some difficulties ensuring that special educator service schedules were aligned to students’ Individualized Education Programs, which required FAPE⁴ meetings for three out of ten students whose records were audited in order to ensure the students were receiving required services.
