Dear Furman Templeton School Community,

As shared last month, at its meeting on January 25, 2022, the Board voted to close Eutaw-Marshburn Elementary School in June 2023, rezone students to either The Historic Samuel Coleridge Taylor Elementary School, Dorothy I. Height Elementary School, or Furman Templeton Preparatory Academy, and return the Eutaw-Marshburn building to the city of Baltimore (“surplus”) in summer 2023.

The purpose of this letter is to make you aware that today, the Board issued a written report that documents this decision. The report can be found on the City Schools website: <https://www.baltimorecityschools.org/annual-review> and is available at your school for viewing. In making its determination, the Board considered the CEO’s rationale, testimony provided at public hearings and submitted in writing, contents of the official record, and the factors required by COMAR and listed in Board policy FCA Closing of Schools (student enrollment trends, age or condition of school buildings, transportation, educational programs, racial composition of student body, financial considerations, student relocation, impact on community and schools which students would relocate).

As described in the notice on the back of this letter (which also appeared this morning in the Baltimore Sun and Daily Record newspapers), members of the public can appeal the Board’s decision in writing to the Maryland State Board of Education within 30 days of today’s date.

The Board approved these recommendations because Eutaw-Marshburn has had low enrollment for several years. Because schools are funded on a per-student basis, school size impacts our ability to provide students staffing and strong, well-rounded academic programming. Additionally, recent facilities work has revealed that the Eutaw-Marshburn building has serious structural weaknesses related to the exterior of the building. While the structural challenge is not of immediate concern it means the building should not be used as a school long term. Bringing the Eutaw-Marshburn school community together with the school communities closest to their homes of The Historic Samuel Coleridge Taylor, Dorothy I. Height or Furman Templeton will provide students and families with access to schools in buildings better able to support learning and more able to offer rich, robust, and varied educational programming.

In the coming months, staff will work with your school community along with the Eutaw-Marshburn school community on creating a shared identity in preparation for becoming a newly combined school and making the transition as smooth as possible. Please let Principal Ballard know if you would like to be part of the transition committee and watch for more information about the schedule of events. For more information on this you can reach out to the Angela Alvarez (adalvarez@bcps.k12.md.us) or Lindsey Anderson (leanderson@bcps.k12.md.us) in the Office of New Initiatives or reach them by phone at 410-396-8550.

Thank you for supporting our schools and students. We look forward to working in partnership with students, families, and your school community.

Sincerely,

Dr. Sonja Brookins Santelises
Chief Executive Officer, Baltimore City Public Schools
Secretary, Baltimore City Board of School Commissioners
